TIAL LAW THIS AFTERNOON

WHOLE BRIGADE EXPECTED

Two Thousand Men Will be Camped in Ohio City by This Evening in Response to a Call For Aid.

Columbus, O., July 28.—State troops are arriving this morning to aid the city authorities in checking the rioting in the Columbus Railway and Light Company's strike.

While martial law has been officially proclaimed the city is in charge of military officials as the result of a call for troops by the mayor and sheriff.

The call for troops came as a result of the continuous rioting throughout the city following the strike of the street railway employees.

Gov. Harmon is hastening here from his summer home in Michigan and the state arsenal is guarded by a detail from Battery D of Columbus armed with riot guns.

The entire first brigade of two thousand men will be camped here by night.

SOCIALISTS WILL NOT PERMIT ANY TROUBLE TO BE

The Outcome of the Criticism of Alderman Berger's Absence From the City.

Milwaukee, July 28.—"No question of that kind will ever split the Social Democratic party," said Alderman Victor L. Berger, speaking of criticisms of his utterances made Wednesday by city officials.

"Least of all will any franchise for John I. Berger cause a division of our ranks," Alderman Berger maintained his position regarding what would be demanded of the street railway company.

"We couldn't arbitrate," he said.
"We could not arbitrate what has been in our platform several times. Also this is the only city in the country where Socialists have voted for franchises. But we realize what conditions are different here, and we can't stop the march of civilization."

"However, that is no reason why we should fall over ourselves to grant franchises of John I. Berger," A number of party members today were as emphatic in scoring the city officials who took Ald. Berger to task as those officials were in scoring that Alderman Wednesday.

"It comes with poor grace," said one, "for a party member and an official to criticize Ald. Berger for being away from Milwaukee on business that the party sent him on."

Lind for governor on a county option platform is the program of the leaders in the Democratic State convention which was called to order here today for the nomination of a State

the convention promises to be over the question of the adoption of a county option resolution. It is planned to have the resolution fight come first, so that will decide the status of John Lind in the convention. It is well known that Mr. Lind could not be persuaded to accept the nomination except on a county option platform.

next to former Governor Lind, has been most prominently mentioned for the head of the ticket, has given the delegates to understand that he does not care for the nomination. In the event of the defeat of the Lind force,

IOWA NEGRO TO DIE ON GALLOWS

JOHN JUNKIN WILL EXPIATE
FIENDISH CRIME.

Murdered and Robbed Miss Clara Rosen, A Handsome Choir Singer, at Ottumwa, Feb. 5, 1909.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Fort Madison, Ia., July 28.—Before expiration of another day John Junkin, the negro who, on the night of February 5, 1909, brutally murdered and then robbed Miss Clara Rosen, a handsome choir singer at Ottumwa, in this state, will have expiated his crime upon the gallows. The scaffold recently erected at the penitentiary is waiting for the doomed man and the preparations for the execution, which have kept Sheriff John G.
Clark, of Appanoose county busy for many days, are completed in every detail.

With the approach of the time for his execution the condemned murderer has become extremely nervous and the prison guards who have kept the death-watch over the prisoner for several weeks, have doubted their vigilance, fearing that Junkin, almost insane from fright over the approaching ordeal, would attempt to commit suicide at the last moment, rather than undergo the legal penalty upon the scaffold.

The attitude of the negro murderer has undergone a remarkable change since the time when he was first taken to the penitentiary to protect him from being lynched. After his fear of the lynchers had worn off Junkin displayed a bravado which thoroughly disgusted the prison officials. He seemed to feel great satisfaction over his importance and notoriety and did not even lose his assurance when he was found guilty of murder and sentenced to death. But, as the time for his execution approached, his dread of the terrible ordeal made him a craven, sullen and whining as his words changed. Never for a moment did he give the slightest evidence of remorse for his brutal crime or of sympathy for the victim and her family.

The crime for which Junkin will pay the legal penalty upon the gallows tomorrow was one of the most heinous in the criminal annals of this state.
The young and handsome victim, Miss Clara Rosen, was returning from choir practice on the night of Feb. 5, of last year, when she was waylaid by Junkin in a deserted locality. The negro choked the girl to prevent her from crying for help, beat her brains out with a rock and then robbed her of her earrings and fingerings. He was caught a short time after this murder, when he tried to pawn the rings. The unusual brutality of the crime had aroused the most intense feeling among the citizens of Ottumwa and when it became known that the slayer of the girl had been apprehended, the citizens gathered with the intention of lynching the murderer.
Only with the greatest difficulty did the authorities succeed in thwarting the plans of the incensed citizens and in smuggling Junkin out of the city and bringing him by special train to Fort Madison, where he was kept safe at the penitentiary.

The execution of Junkin tomorrow will be the second legal hanging of a negro in this state in twenty-five years. The last negro who paid the death penalty upon the scaffold in this state was Joe Smith, a negro from Dixon, who was hanged on April 20, 1906, for the murder of his sweetheart. It is a remarkable coincidence that Judge M. A. Roberts, who passed judgment on Junkin, also presided at the trial of Smith.

Woman's Danger Line.
Whenever a woman starts to smoke, whenever she begins to drink, even in moderation, she puts her feet in a dangerous path. To preserve purity of life and thought, to have womanhood, every bit of protection, every safeguard is needed. It will be a sad day when dignity, modesty, purity of thought and language are no longer expected of woman. Lack of expression and conduct are all too closely associated with loose morals.—Baltimore But.

TELLS OF THE I. C. GRAFT

ASTOUNDING TALE IS UNFOLDED BEFORE MASTER IN CHANCERY.

CAR INSPECTOR IS WITNESS

New Rolling Stock Is Used to Patch Up Old, and Both Are Charged For, Harold A. Blinn Declares—Other Facts Disclosed.

Chicago, July 25.—That the Illinois Central Railroad company was made to act as its own highwayman—furnishing its own pistol, holding the weapon to its own head and plundering its own pockets—in connection with the alleged $1,500,000 fraud in the repair of freight cars, was disclosed yesterday at a hearing before Master in Chancery Roswell B. Mason. A most astounding tale of graft was unfolded when Harold A. Blinn, former traveling car inspector for the railroad and later in the employ of one of the two repairing companies that are charged with the fraud, told in detail how the railroad furnished new cars to be torn to pieces for use in the building of one of the repair plants and the repair of old cars and then padded bills, not only for the work done, but also for the materials and time consumed in dismantling the new cars. To simplify the robbing of itself the railroad company induced Blinn to enter the employ of the alleged robbers.

Some Things Disclosed.
Here are some of the things, as disclosed by the evidence, that the alleged conspirators did:

Dismantled Illinois Central freight cars to procure material to put into the construction of the plant of the Memphis Car company and then charged the Illinois Central road for repairing the dismantled cars.

Took many parts from Illinois Central cars that were in good repair and used the parts to repair cars that were in bad order, charging the railroad company for the stolen parts.

Required good order cars from which parts were stolen to repair bad order cars, charging the company with the material used in both and for the labor of robbing the cars as well as repairing them.

Secured materials from the Illinois Central company's shops at Memphis with which to make repairs and then charged the Illinois Central for the material.

Had much of the wood work necessary in the repair of cars done in the shops of the Illinois Central at Memphis and then charged the Illinois Central for doing the work for itself.

Charged for repairing one-half the brakes that came in, irrespective of whether or not any brakes were repaired.

Added the bills for labor approximately 40 per cent.

Made a uniform charge for 14 gallons of paint to a car, irrespective of whether any paint was used and regardless of the fact that a flat car requires only from two to three gallons.

ORDER BIG BUILDING STRIKE

Trades Council Seek to Force Settlement With Elevator Company.

Chicago, July 28.—In a final effort to obtain a settlement with the Otis Elevator company, a general strike of building trades was decided upon at a conference of thirty-seven unions. Already 625 men have gone out and it is predicted by the leaders of the union that 2,500 men will be on strike within a day or two. The only union not affected by the order is that of the carpenters.

The cause of the strike is the refusal of the Otis Elevator company to remove machinists from elevator construction work, the American Federation of Labor having held this line of work to belong strictly to elevator constructors.

It is said the company has contracts on thirty-seven buildings, now in the course of construction here, and that work will be stopped on all of them.

GOVERNOR HASKELL IS BEATEN

Guthrie Is Capital of Oklahoma Until Legality Is Determined.

Guthrie, Okla., July 28.—The state supreme court handed down a decision in the capital removal case. It is to the effect that Oklahoma's capital shall remain at Guthrie until the legality of the election recently held is determined.

In obedience to the decision all state officials other than the governor, who have removed their offices to Oklahoma City must return to Guthrie and stay there until the courts have finally decided the capital controversy.

The governor may go where he pleases, but legally his official acts must appear as having been performed in Guthrie.

$100,000 GEM THIEF SHIELDED

Diamonds of Senator Oliver's Sister Recovered—Facts Kept From Public.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 28.—The jewels of Mrs. Henry H. Rea, sister of United States Senator Oliver, which were stolen about two years ago have been recovered and Pittsburg society is consumed with curiosity for it is plain that the name of the thief or circumstances surrounding the loss of the jewels are not to be made known. The jewels stolen amounted to $100,000.

RURALES CAPTURE GEN. MINNET.

Cuban Insurgent Surprised in Camp by Lieut. Carrillo's Guard.

Havana, July 28.—General Minnet, who two days ago started an uprising near El Caney, was surprised in camp and captured by a detachment of the rural guard under Lieutenant Carrillo. One of Minnet's insurgents was killed. Minnet and two others were taken prisoners and the others fled. When Lieutenant Carrillo and his detachment came upon General Minnet and his band of insurgents he immediately opened fire. The insurgents returned the fire, but when the guard charged they took to flight, abandoning their arms. The band is being hotly pursued by the rurales. None of the guard was hurt.

20 HURT IN CROSSING CRASH.

Pittsburg "Flyer" Plows Through Street Car—Several Fatally Injured.

Cleveland, O., July 28.—Thirty passengers of a St. Clair avenue car were near death when the Pittsburg Flyer on the Pennsylvania railroad crashed into the car on a grade crossing. Twenty were injured, several fatally. The engine plowed through the center of the car throwing it 150 feet. Men and women pinned in the wreckage were rescued by police and eye witnesses of the accident. The gates at the crossing were raised when the car started to cross the tracks. The motorman failed to see the train which was hidden from view by a curve.

LOCAL OPTION PLANK ADOPTED.

Iowa Democrats Meet and Ratify Nominations on State Ticket.

Ottumwa, Ia., July 28.—After a bitter wrangle in the resolutions committee, the Democratic state convention adopted a local option plank, thereby putting the liquor question which has been a thorn in the flesh of both parties for years, squarely up to the people.

Jerry B. Sullivan of Des Moines, former candidate for governor, acted as temporary chairman, and scored Theodore Roosevelt unmercifully in his speech.

The platform contained 13 planks. The tariff bill was denounced as a "masterpiece of injustice involving remorseless exactions from the many to enrich the few."

The nomination of Claude R. Porter for governor was ratified, and the entire state ticket. A. Vanwagoner of Sioux City and Judge Wolf of Clinton were nominated for judges of the supreme court.

Roosevelt Honeymoon Ends.

Santa Barbara, Cal., July 28.—Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., and his bride left for San Francisco, where Mr. Roosevelt will enter on his duties as carpet making. The Roosevelts have been enjoying a month of honeymoon at Miramar.

TAFT SATISFIED.

"Is satisfied." This is the announcement that comes from President Taft, when told of the results of the Ohio republican state convention which closed yesterday. Not only did this convention endorse the attitude of President Taft on important national matters, but it also nominated a good, strong man for the gubernatorial candidate to oppose Harmon, who is supposed to be grooming himself for the democratic presidential nomination. It even went further and turned down all taint of insurgency and all insurgents. Of course President Taft is satisfied and so are the Taft republicans the country over. Just at present Wisconsin is passing through a similar stage of summer blindness as regards the insurgency proposition.
This evening Senator E. T. Fairchild of Milwaukee, a candidate for the republican gubernatorial nomination, spoke in the Court House park. Senator Fairchild is a strong Taft supporter and it is to be hoped that all the republicans who are not blinded by bitter local partisan spirit will be present and hear what he has to say in his own behalf and in behalf of President Taft, the recognized leader of republicanism in the United States.
If Wisconsin nominates good, true loyal Taft republicans, not insurgents, or supporters of insurgents, then President Taft can again issue a statement that he is satisfied. It is a question of Taft or anti-Taft at the present state contest and try as hard as they can the opponents of the conservative republicans can not get away from this proposition. Neither in assembly, senatorial, congressional, on the state ticket, or for the United States senatorship—it is Taft or anti-Taft—nothing else, pure and simple.

MARKET FLUCTUATIONS.

Considerable activity has been noted in the stock markets of the country within the past few weeks, particularly the New York exchange, which really sets the pace for all American industrial stocks. "The Wall Street Journal," in explaining this situation, says:

"There is a curious periodicity about the larger movement of stocks which is brought out by a comparison of the average prices over a series of years. In the latter part of 1900, for instance, an upward movement set in which did not culminate until September, 1902. This was followed by a decline which was not effectively checked until the end of 1903. A renewed advance then developed, and the highest point ever reached by the average prices of industrial and railroad stocks was reached in January, 1904.

"That year was one of uncertainty, influenced by such unexpected calamities as the San Francisco fire and earthquake. For an unusually long period the market had no broad general tendency. The high price of the previous January was closely approached, even as late as December; but then a most serious decline began, culminating in the panic at the end of 1907. The low prices were touched in November of that year.
From that point prices rallied, reaching their highest level in the autumn of 1909.

"The last movement involved an advance of 45 per cent in the twenty active railroad stocks, and of no less than 30 per cent in the industrials.
After a little hesitation before taking the plunge the market broke into the present bear movement, which, on the average, gives no technical indication of concluding.

"What is very striking about these movements is that they can be summed up as approximately two years' advance, one year's decline, two years' advance, one year's decline, one year's decline, two years' advance, and the present year's decline. There is something positively rhythmic about this, and it would be idle to doubt that the movement is governed by laws which some day will be formulated. The ten-year period we have chosen for this comparison is, of course, different to the ten years preceding. It has witnessed a practically continuous growth in the country's wealth, and in the volume of the country's business, and has, of course, not been interrupted by the extreme depression of 1893-1895, as was the case in the previous decade.

"It may be said further that each of these declines has been adequately explained sooner or later. During the last quarter of 1902 a writer in one of the New York morning dailies could see no other reason for the decline than unpatriotic attacks upon the stock market by "bear raiders." At the end of the year it became apparent that the market was suffering from "undigested securities," and that newspaper secured a new financial editor. The incidents and causes of the crisis of 1907 are too recent to need discussion.

"The present downward movement will run its course, let Hercules himself do what he may." Judged by past experience we are approaching the low point of the decline, and ought to touch it before the end of the year."

THE SIMPLE HORSESHOE.

In an exchange we learn that the Kansas farmer has returned to the greatest game of the ages, the throwing of the horseshoe. The revival of the old sport of rural communities before golf and baseball became the fads is most remarkable.

The ancients threw the discus. The modern Europeans and some Americans throw quoits. Out in Kansas the affluent farmer, satiated by the fashionable recreations and amusements of the period, is returning little by little to a grand old custom of the plain people in his father's time, and is throwing the horseshoe. Nobody has got more good out of latter-day inventions and conveniences and wholesale distractions than the Kansas farmer, partly because his taste runs to the acquisition and enjoyment of things which assist in making life more comfortable, and partly because he has had the money. Thus he has gathered about his family circle the automatic piano, the phonograph, the automobile, high-class pictures, standard literature, solid mahogany furniture and oriental rugs. Thus, too, he has joined a golf club, and seldom fails to be in Topeka, Lawrence, Wichita, Leavenworth or some other center of activity in the state when a good game of baseball is on.

For years or, say since 1896, when the prices of Kansas farm products began to ascend, he has indulged moderately and decently in the luxuries of the age; he has traveled abroad;
yet the feeling that something more was necessary to round out his happiness never left him. And it was only quite recently that he discovered what the matter was.

He realizes now that nothing in this world which money can buy equals as a tranquilizer the throwing of the horseshoe. And he is going in for it from the Missouri river to the Colorado line, from the old Indian border on the south to Nebraska on the north. Such a grip has the horseshoe taken of him that horseshoe factories are opening up the output of which is immense and absorbed at once by the horseshoe clubs and horseshoe throwers in every neighborhood.

Kansas does nothing by halves, so silver and gold horseshoes with diamond settings are offered as prizes to those who throw the horseshoe most skillfully, and every male Kansas carries a horseshoe with him into the field, to his store or his office, and relieves the monotony of working hours by casting it at a dandelion or a fence picket. This was when the average Kansan aspired to be famous as a statesman, but just now he is giving thought only to winning applause by the way he throws the horseshoe.

In another column will be found a statement from the city health officer relative to keeping the alleys and yards clean. It is worth considering this proposition of general health of the city and should be strictly enforced where any property-owners are found negligent.

The voters of the first assembly district will do well to carefully consider the qualifications of the candidates for the assembly before they reject such a man as Laurence Whittett and elect his opponent on purely a partisan political basis. Mr. Whittett has made a reputation for himself and for his district in the legislature and he is needed there at the coming session.

Aurora, Illinois has ordered that everyone within its corporate limits shall take a bath once a week. Perhaps Aurora owns the city water plant and wants to run up expenses a bit.

Mr. Bryan sacrificed himself upon the altar, according to his own tale.
Well, perhaps he did. He has done the same thing several times before, but usually the poor democratic party has had to suffer likewise.

This is the time of year that the political threshing outfit run a few thousand tons of chaff into the political bin.

Europe might try the plan of importing some of its excess rains to the middle west of the United States.
It is needed here.

If all boys were taught to swim there would be fewer drownings when they reach manhood.

PRESS COMMENT.

Trite But True.

As the city authorities have frequently discovered in the street paying matter, there are always methods of not doing a thing.—Wausau Record-Herald.

Earn It First.

And, of course, it must be borne in mind that you have to save the bank can help you much.—Milwaukee

Tariff Making Good.

The new tariff, whatever its minor defects, continues to justify itself in a grand way as conducive to the prosperity of the country. Exports of manufactures in the fiscal year 1910 exceeded those of any earlier year, and imports of manufactures sensationally in 1910 were also the largest on record. This is shown by an analysis of the year's imports and exports just prepared by the Bureau of Statistics of the Department of Commerce and Labor.—Milwaukee Wisconsin.

Scads vs. Worth.

The senior senator has a great abhorrence of money in politics when it is not spent for him or his family. This being the case, it will be only natural for him to favor Candidate Lewis, who has the only "barrel" with an open spigot that we know anything about in this campaign. This is probably another reason for Candidate McGovern's howl. And yet only a few years ago this same McGovern flourished gladly under the golden shower of Stop-penson money when he disregarded his "moral obligation" and ran as independent for district attorney.—Bellevue Free Press.

Figurehead.

There are some curious things in American politics. The governor of Ohio hasn't enough power to make the position of any importance in the state, as far as government goes. He cannot veto a bill and except for his title and salary he hasn't much to show for the place.

But the governorship of Ohio is an important place both to the Democrats and the republican party campaign managers. The party that puts its representative in the Ohio governor's chair is able to "point with pride" to having carried a state election in one of the most important and wealthiest states of the union. The Ohio governorship is, in fact, a good deal like the counter on a newspaper press.
It indicates pretty accurately the popularity of the principles that are behind it.—Sheboygan Journal.

Rhodesia Diamond Industry.

New life appears to have come again into the diamond industry at Rhodesia, on the border of the Vryburg-Kuruman border. Only recently 38 carats of diamonds were taken out of a small hole of 15 feet square by 5 feet deep. The diamonds are of fairly good quality, and were sold for $775. The parcel consisted of about fifty diamonds, the largest of which weighed seven carats. In consequence of the discoveries there has been a rush of diggers from the Vaal river.

Best Things Nearest.

The best things are nearest; breath
in your nostrils, light in your eyes, flowers at your feet, duties at your hand, common work, as it comes, certain that daily duties and daily bread are the sweetest things of life.—Ruskin.

Light In Everything.

In everything that happens there is light; and the greatness of the greatest of men has not consisted in that they had trained their eyes to be open to every ray of this light.—Maurice

By EDWIN A. NYE.

SHE WAS NOT CRAZY.

A Mrs. Mogg wanted to put the family dog into the grave of her husband, which, to say the least, was queer.

Now Mrs. Mogg has died and has left $50,000 to a hospital, whereat the bears have brought suit to break the will. They declare Mrs. Mogg was insane and plead the dog incident as proof.

But why insane? It may be granted her funeral impulse was much out of date, but—

Burying dogs and other animals with the dead was all the rage in the early history of the race.

For many centuries, too, the poor Indian, kept the custom of his ancestors by going to his happy hunting ground along with his favorite dog and gun.

Back east our Aryan ancestors were much more savage in their burial occurrences. Even up to recent times it was the custom in India to pile a man's living widow, into a funeral pyre, put the dead body on top of the poor wifes and set fire to the mass.

In the interior of Africa they do it differently. They dig a trench, put into it the body of the big chief and then kill a selected number of his wives and bury them with him.

Poor human race! It has been slow in getting away from savagery.

Looking backward, we can see how far we have come by the way of progress.

Note another incident: Not long ago a meteor fell near El Paso, Tex., and exploded, starting a forest fire.

What happened? Why, the people merely set to work to put out the forest fire, and that was all of it, except some of the fragments were picked up and sent to the college museums.

Suppose such a thing had occurred 500 years ago? The inhabitants would have been on their knees expecting the end of the world. They would have acted like some of our ignorant who dreaded the coming of Halley's comet.

A few superstitious ones still regard the phenomena of the universe as ul-tracurios, but the great mass of the people know better. We have been educated far away from our ancestors.

But poor Mrs. Mogg is simply what they call a "reversion to type." Desiring to do something for the dead she loved, the idea of her savage ancestors popped into her head, and she thought to cheer the poor ghost of her husband with the company of the faithful dog.

There are a lot of people outside the system more nearly crazy than Mrs.
Mogg.

THE POET PHILOSOPHER

By WALT MASON.

(Copyright, 1909, by George Matthew Adams.)

He stood upon the gallows tree, his eye devoid of fear. "I have the short's leave," said he, to those assembled near,
"to talk a while before I pass out of this world of crime, to sleep beneath the billiard grass, through all the years of time. And so, my friends, I'll now discuss some large and vital themes;
the Dutch-Guineaholmer fuss, insurgents and their schemes; I'll touch upon the postal banks, the tariff law review, and round these conversation cranks who keep things in a stew. Is Taft a failure or success I'll weigh him in the scale." Then, with a signal of distress, the sheriff of the jail, released a pair of fateful struttings—the ghastly scolded strangled!
The truth about these vital things will never be explained!

FOOLED THE DOCTOR

I make elegant gold and porcelain bridge work.
So natural that it will almost defy detection.
I once put in some white crowns for a young man who later underwent an examination for enlistment in the army.

The examining Surgeon looked his mouth over carefully, but failed to detect that he had four artificial crowns in his mouth.

I put the joint way up under the gums out of sight.
My prices also you will find are inconspicuous compared to what you have paid heretofore.

Let me see your mouth.

FAIRCHILD WILL MAKE SHORT TALK

CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR AND B. J. CASTLE TO TALK ON CAMPAIGN ISSUES.

BAND CONCERT IN PARK

Imperial Band Will Play Before and After Address—First Concert in Two Years.

State Senator E. T. Fairchild and his party of campaigners arrived in Jamesville this morning from Beloit where the Senator spoke last evening at a mass meeting of voters. B. J. Castle of Madison, Governor Davidson's personal representative on the trip is with the party and also spoke at Beloit last evening.

The committee in charge of Senator Fairchild's reception here have arranged for an open air meeting in the Court House Park at eight o'clock preceded by a band concert by the Imperial band.

This is the first band concert for two years and coupled with the opportunity of hearing one of the leading republican candidates for Governor speak, there will doubtless be a large turnout on this evening. The stand has been placed conveniently near the street so that all can hear the speaking and enjoy the music and still find seats. Immediately following the address Senator Fairchild will be at the Myers hotel where he will be pleased to meet personally all the citizens of Jamesville who can be present.

SLEUTH MAY BE SUED FOR SLANDER

Well Known Local Business Man and Attorney Are Looking For Otto Ward Who Exposed "Jamesville's Shame."

Otto Ward, the "spotter" who busied himself "seeing things at night" in Jamesville not long ago and whose "revelations" set the town agog and stirred up bad feeling between several of the city department heads, is promised a warm reception next time he comes to this corner of Wisconsin. It appears that Ward was not content with probing municipal conditions but took it upon himself to investigate a scandalous rumor concerning a well known business man of excellent reputation. According to the accounts the foundation of this rumor was the fact that a young woman had become mentally unbalanced while taking a drive with him. It is alleged that Ward and one of the city officials summoned this man before them and after advising him that they had convincing evidence against him, urged that he make a clean breast of the whole affair and prepare to enter a plea of guilty in court. The business man, it is claimed, characterized all their discoveries as fabrications pure and simple and refuted what he had to say by the verbal evidence of the physician who had been called upon to attend the unfortunate young woman. And when, subsequently, he is alleged to have ascertained that Ward had related the supposed details of a supposed outrage in the presence of several women, the business man retained an attorney and prepared to begin a slander suit the moment Ward gets within striking distance again. The sleuth claims to be head of a detective agency in Pennsylvania.

A NEW DEPARTURE IN BARBER SHOPS FOR JAMESVILLE.

The Ideal Barber Shop On South Franklin St. Recently Remodeled Shows Wonderful Change In Equipment.

With everything new, everything sanitary, everything pure white and cleanly the remodeled Ideal Barber Shop at No. 9 South Franklin St., now opens on a par with shops never found outside of the larger cities.

One is greeted with a dazzling sight of plate glass, marble and white tiling, as you step in the door.

Arrangements have been made to such a nicety that the individual's comfort is noticeably foremost. Undoubtedly good motto for this shop to adopt would be "The Shop for the Individual."

Everything tends to individuality. When a man is to be shaved, the new sanitary shaving powder is used, instead of the old fashioned bar soap. The shaving mug is thoroughly sterilized after each time it is used, thus giving a man individual soap and mug. The face creams used for massaging and after shaving are taken from individual tin foil tubes. The head rests on the chairs are never used a second time, being destroyed immediately after using. There are individual wash-bowls for shampooing. Everything is conducive to individuality.

An Electric Hair Dryer has been installed, the only one in Jamesville. It quickly dries the hair with either hot or cold draughts of air. There is also an electric massaging machine for facial treatments.

The corps of barbers here are all experts and the service they give is unequalled anywhere in town. Massage and facial treatments it is claimed are the best offered in Jamesville.

Mr. George Dunnett, the proprietor is justly proud of this fine establishment and wants every one in Jamesville to know about it. He extends a cordial invitation to the public to visit "The Shop for the Individual."

ED. BIERKNESSE NEARLY DROWNED IN RIVER TODAY

Supposed Victim of Delirium Tremens Rescued by George Keeter and William Taylor.

Crazed by the heat and intoxicants, Edward Bierkness, a carpenter, wandered into the river near the Thoroughbred factory this morning. He had been wondering about in the water for quite a time when his strange movements attracted attention. He seemed to be on his hands and knees in the stream and unable to get ashore. When it became evident that he was in a serious plight, George Keeter and St. Paul Switchman William Taylor went to the rescue.

Bierkness was utterly exhausted when dragged ashore and would have drowned in a couple of feet of water had the rescue been further delayed. The police department was notified by telephone. Not long thereafter, Bierkness got up and making his way to the Fourth avenue bridge, was about to jump into the river again when "Jack" Fletcher intervened and held him fast until Officer Sam Brown arrived on the scene to escort the man to the police station.

Bierkness fought with imaginary enemies all the way to the station and did not quiet down until late in the forenoon. He is about 36 years of age and is believed to be a victim of delirium tremens.

RAWN PROBE HAS BEGUN

PRIVATE DETECTIVES EXPRESS OPINION MONON HEAD COMMITTED SUICIDE.

WIDOW TAKES WITNESS STAND

Testifies Before Coroner's Jury That She Heard But One Shot on Night Husband Killed—L. C. Craft Is Mentioned.

Chicago, July 28.—Pinkerton detectives, after the most searching inquiry, have been unable to unearth a particle of evidence to show that Ira G. Rawn, president of the Monon railroad and former vice-president of the Illinois Central, did not die by his own hand. The detectives were hired by the family of the millionaire railroad magnate in the hope that they would be able to prove that Mr. Rawn was slain by an intruder. The private detectives, on the contrary, freely expressed their opinion that the case was one of suicide.

C. Furness Hately, a neighbor of the Rawn family in Winnetka, one of the first to reach the Rawn home after the tragedy and foreman of the coronor's jury, was the man who gave this significant testimony.

General Opinion Is Suicide. Under the questioning of Coroner Hoffman Mr. Hately testified that while at first he was convinced that the case was one of murder, not suicide, the general impression among the Pinkerton operatives after they had made a first investigation was that Mr. Rawn had been killed by his own hand.

Another significant fact was brought out in the testimony of Mrs. Rawn, who was the first witness on the stand. This was:

Heard But One Shot. That she had heard but one shot fired in the Rawn home on the night that Mr. Rawn was killed.

She did testify that she heard sounds as if two men were scuffling in the hall of the residence, but that was all. The shot rang out a few seconds after Mr. Rawn had left the bedroom, revolver in hand. She rushed downstairs, she testified, and found her husband's body lying at the foot of the stairs, the pistol clutched in his hand.

Aside from these two points very little light on the manner in which Mr. Rawn met his death was given at the session. A number of witnesses were examined; there are many more to testify. In all 31 persons will give their testimony before the proceedings are finished and the jury renders its verdict.

L. C. Craft Called Up.

Several times during the examination of witnesses the question of graft in the Illinois Central railroad was mentioned. Judge E. C. Field, Mr. Rawn's personal counsel and now acting president of the Monon, said that he had discussed the question of the graft charges with Mr. Rawn several times.

"Mr. Rawn had no worries on that score," testified Judge Field.

Four Hurt in Crash.

In sight of scores of residents of Winnetka a large automobile containing four Chicago business men interested in the finding of the coronor's jury was struck by a speeding Chicago & Milwaukee electric car in Winnetka.

Everyone of the occupants of the automobile was injured. All had narrow escapes from instant death. Nelson R. Maclean, superintendent of the Pacific Mutual Life Insurance company of California, may be seriously hurt.

BRYAN BOWS TO PARTY'S WILL.

Deposed Leader Promises to Work in Nebraska Democratic Rank.

Lincoln, Neb., July 28.—Philosophical in the face of his decisive defeat in the Democratic state convention, William J. Bryan returned to Lincoln, content, he says, to become an humble worker in the ranks of the party of which he had been for many years the acknowledged state leader. Mr. Bryan made it plain that he had no intention of bolting, but at the same time he said he had not retreated one inch from his position on county option and his attitude against the liquor interests. He will use his influence, he intimated, to secure the nomination of Richard L. Metcalfe for United States senator, but if Mr. Metcalfe falls at the primaries he will give the party's nominee at least nominal support.

PREDICTS HOUR OF HIS DEATH.

Man Afflicted With Hydrophobia Makes Arrangements for Funeral.

Bayonne, N. J., July 28.—"You can't beat the hydrophobia," remarked James Hardy, as he was carried into the hospital here. "I'll die before noon."

Hardy's prediction was accurate. He died less than three hours after he had been admitted to the hospital. His end was the agonizing and horrible end of all who die of rabies. Several days ago Hardy made all arrangements for his funeral. He was bitten by a pet dog two months ago.

Dynamite Saves Durning Town. Wampum, Pa., July 28.—Dynamite was employed to check the progress of a fire which nearly wiped out the business section of this mining settlement. Eleven buildings were razed. The loss is $50,000.

Easiest Way to Spend Money. Going to law is the easiest way of spending money that I know.

From Lucile's Diary

Mother's small and perfectly unnecessary household economies annoy me dreadfully at times.

I said to her one day recently that I wished she would have our nickel telephone taken out and replaced by the unlimited service.

"As you nearly always use my nickel one," laughed mother, "I don't see why you should care which kind of telephone we have. Seriously, dear, I think that if even a little money can be saved by using the nickel phone we ought to do it cheerfully."

I knew it was useless to argue the matter with mother any further at that time, but I did not give up the idea of securing the unlimited service. I rarely abandon any plan on which my mind is set, for I think persistence is one of the important elements of strength of character.

That evening just after dinner Betty called me up and asked me to come over and play cards.

"I hope you haven't any engagements," she said, "for Bob has brought a friend home to dinner tonight and we would like to have a little bridge."

When I got to Betty's I was sorry I had taken the trouble to change my dress. Her invitation was very misleading. I had naturally supposed that when Betty said Bob had brought a friend home she meant a man friend, and I was greatly surprised to be introduced to a plainly gowned and quite uninteresting looking woman.

"Miss Clyde went to school with Bob years ago and now she teaches in a western college," whispered Betty while I was removing my wraps. "She is very bright and charming."

"Really?" I murmured.

As we joined Bob and his old friend in the drawing room I noticed the telephone in the hall.

"Oh, I see you have the unlimited service now!" I exclaimed. "I'm trying to persuade mother to have it put in at our house."

"What's the use?" asked Uncle Bob, good-naturedly. "Whenever you feel an excess of telephonic enthusiasm coming on, drop in here and help yourself to our phone."

"That's awfully sweet of you, Uncle Bob," I replied. "I believe I'll avail myself of your generosity now while Betty is getting out her cards and the bridge table."

I slipped into the hall and rung up Mr. Owen, who has been ill for a few days. He appeared to enjoy a chat and we talked for quite a while. Then I remembered that I had promised to pass the evening at Louise Erwin's house, so I phoned her my apologies for not going. There were several others to whom I wished to speak and I was in the midst of a conversation with Arthur Knight when Betty called me.

"Just a moment, dear," I answered, considerably, ignoring her petulant tone.

"Now, you are surely through," Betty said, coming into the hall a few minutes later. "Bob's fuming for our bridge."

"Poor Uncle Bob!" I laughed. "He'll have to be patient a little longer, for I'm waiting for a long-distance call." Betty left me without another word, and in a minute more I was listening to the voice of Winsor Lee, whom I had been lucky enough to catch at the hotel in Cleveland where he is just now. I told him about the new tennis club that some of our crowd are organizing and I asked him advice about the kind of racket I should buy. Winsor is such a devoted tennis player that he forgets all about time when he is discussing his favorite game. As he was so thoughtful about the racket, begging the privilege of choosing the one for me, I had not the heart to break off the conversation.

It was rudely interrupted by Uncle Bob, who asked me with uncalculated sharpness if I was "going to talk to that chap all night."

"Of course not," I said. "What time is it?"

"It's exactly 10:45 o'clock."

"Mercy! I must go home at once!" I exclaimed.

"Why, you haven't had any bridge," protested Betty, "and I was going to make a Welsh rabbit, Lucile."

"Well, I'll stay for a wee bit of the rabbit," I conceded. "Then I must fly. You know how mother dislikes having me remain out late."

Uncle Bob was extremely tactful all the way home. In fact, so short and gruff were his remarks that I was sorry I had bothered to go to his house. I have not seen him since that evening, but yesterday he told mother that a large bill had come in for long-distance telephoning which he thought I would want to pay out of my allowance. When mother spoke to me about it I said that I was simply astonished at Uncle Bob.

"Why, he invited me to use his phone any time," I told her.

"But he didn't expect you to talk to Cleveland for over an hour," said mother. "I do wish, Lucile, that you had not abused his generosity. It makes me very uncomfortable when you displease your Uncle Bob."

"Well, mother," I remarked, "if you would allow me to have the unlimited service put in a little unpleasantness like this would never happen."

Mother just sighed in that martyr-like way of hers.

The men have come today to change our phone. It will be a great comfort to have the unlimited service.

Beautiful Women

Paris is Full of Them, and all have Fascinating Hair

In the beauty show three years ago gold medals were awarded to five different women.

The most beautiful woman between 20 and 25; between 25 and 30; between 35 and 40 and between 40 and 45.

A society reporter who interviewed all five women in the interest of his paper, reported that all of them had beautiful hair, and that each of the five enthusiastically attributed her luxuriant hair to Parisian Sage.

Parisian Sage is a discovery of a celebrated scientist, who spent the best years of his life to perfect this great hair invigorator.

In giving his recipe to the people he said: "Parisian Sage is the most delightful hair dressing in the world, but it is more than a hair dressing. It cures dandruff by killing the germs that infect the roots of the hair. It stops falling hair; it gives vigor and strength to the hair roots; it prevents the hair from turning gray."

The People's Drug Co. sell Parisian Sage at 50 cents a large bottle, and guarantee it to do all that is claimed for it or money refunded. If you do not reside near a druggist who sells Parisian Sage, send 50 cents to Glouster Mfg. Co., Buffalo, N. Y., and a bottle will be sent you by express, all charges prepaid. The girl with the Auburn hair is on every bottle.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

MOSTLY, I think, because I've tried to live my life by hours and days rather than by weeks and months.

That's the latest receipt I have picked up for a way to have water from the Ponce de Leon fountain right on your own table every day.

I know I have written on that subject two or three times before, but, except for a recipe for an all powerful love philtre to compel unwilling love, do you think there is any formula that the world is so passionately and universally interested in as a recipe for prolonging youth?

I don't.

So when I meet a man or woman who has grown gray without growing old, I always ask, "How have you done it?"

And this, given me by a beautiful white haired girl of 86 summers, is my latest answer.

And the best, I think, "By trying to live one's life by days and hours rather than by weeks and months."

Do the cares and tasks and needs that beset you seem more than you are equal to just now?

Then try honestly to lay aside that part of them which belong to tomorrow and see if you do not marvel at the little that is left.

I shall never forget the first time I walked under Brooklyn bridge.

As we steamed up the river towards it it seemed impossible to me that we should be able to go beneath it.

Of course the masts divided us as we approached the bridge and of course we passed beneath it quite safely.

And equally, of course, I was not afraid the next time I took the trip.

Why can't we be as trusting about other things?

Why can't we remember that every time it has seemed to us that we simply could not accomplish what had to be done in the next week, when that week came it was not only possible but comparatively easy?

Why can't we apply that remembrance when we find ourselves fretted at the thought of some new mountain of impossibility that lies across our path—some new bridge that it seems as if the boat could not pass under?

Tomorrow is a great contriver. It has always solved its own problems very easily and it always will if you give it half a chance.

Today is the time to be happy. Tomorrow is a better time for troubles and problems and difficulties.

Live your life by my beautiful old friend's rule of "hours and days rather than months and weeks," and adopt this motto of Thomas Bailey Aldrich, and I'll promise you not a ripe old age, but better than that a youth that shall last until you die.

I'll not confer with sorrow till tomorrow.

But joy shall have her way this very day."

COULD SON GUARDED TO BLOCK ELOPEMENT. FATHER OPPOSED TO MATCH, REPORTED TO HAVE HIRED DETECTIVES TO WATCH WOMAN.—BETTRICE BRUNER GODFREY.

(By Special Correspondent.)
London—While Jay Gould, son of George J. Gould, will neither affirm nor deny his reported engagement to Mrs. Beatrice Bruner Godfrey, the American actress, rumors indicate that the family of the young millionaire are taking no chances of an elopement. That Mrs. Godfrey is constantly watched by detectives hired by members of the Gould family is declared here. Mrs. Godfrey is playing with a husband comedy here, while Gould is supposed to be on the continent with his father. The young actress, who was the wife of Arthur Godfrey, of Boston, refused to discuss the story of her engagement further than to say that she could see no reason for discussing the matter in any way. Although George Gould has not said anything for publication, close friends say that he is much opposed to the proposed match and that he is keeping close watch over his son, while others are doing the same over Mrs. Godfrey.

A SENSE OF HUMOR.

By MARY RUSSELL.

A man who marries a woman who has no sense of humor is just a little less happy than the woman who marries a man whose humorous bump is a little low.

We would laugh and grow fat and we might add find something to laugh at and be happy. Tears draw some people together, but smiles could them fast. The man who can take his wife's little annoyances with a tender smile and forget them, who takes them as a serious defect of character.

The woman who can see how absurd her husband is in some of his impressive moods and with a tender humorous smile puts this phase in the background of an otherwise noble character, is on the road to happiness which the woman who weeps at the trait will miss absolutely.

We are limited in our sense of humor—no question about that. In a humorous page of a current magazine which has a large circulation there appear six illustrated alleged humorous incidents. Mrs. Newlywed and her house-keeping problem, the father-in-law covered with mosquitoes in search of the simple life, the absent-minded man who forgets his child in church, the wriggling child in the newly elected public man whose first great extemporaneous effort in his private rehearsal puts his family to sleep, and the small boy who takes a piece of the great activities of the manhood political gossip, make up

SUPERB COSTUMES ARE WORN AT THE LARGE HOTELS IN THE EVENING.

At places like Atlantic City, Saratoga and Narragansett, where the visitors represent the wealthy class from cities all over the United States, many magnificent toilettes are in evidence for the band concert in the evening, and given as handsome as the one pictured are an ordinary occurrence. Old black chintilly lace has been draped over gold silk to form this luxurious costume which is further enriched with gold embroidery.

DAILY DIET HINTS

By DR. T. J. ALLEN, Food Specialist.

DON'T STIMULATE THE APETITE.

Condiments become necessary only by force of habit. A normal appetite needs no goad. Pepper is as injurious in the mouth and stomach as dust in the eyes. The mouth should water at the sight and taste of food, without irritation by pepper and salt. "Let good digestion wait on appetite," says Shakespeare, wisely, "and health both." Abnormal stimulation disturbs normal action. "Hard tack" may taste better than "angel food," and it is better to cultivate an appetite for hard tack than for angel food, because the satisfaction of a real vigorous appetite for simple, natural food, may be as gratifying as the satisfaction of the spoiled appetite; and the former implies a condition of health which means happiness and success, and, more important, moral stamina. "Control your appetites, boys," said Mr. Queers to his pupils, "and you can then control all your other passions," a philosophy which harmonizes with that expressed in the saying of Bishop Fallows: "You can make a man good or bad according to the way you feed him."

GOOD ROADS CONGRESS MEETS.

Congress Will Be Asked to Aid Better Highways Movement.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., July 28.—With the announced purpose of giving a great national boost to the movement for better highways, a large number of men of prominence assembled here today to attend the third National Good Roads congress. It is the largest of these gatherings yet held, for in addition to the congressmen, governors and others of official position invited, the call was sent to about 100,000 owners of automobiles and to agricultural associations, granges, farmers' clubs, and every other body of state, municipal or private character interested in the movement. The women's federations were especially asked to send delegates any many of them complied.

The particular aim of this congress, which will last until Saturday evening, will be to prove to congress the feasibility of giving national aid to road construction as it does to the improvement of national waterways. The needs of no part of the country will be neglected. In the way of amusement for the visitors many events have been arranged, including an automobile parade and trips about Niagara Falls, Niagara river and the Great Gorge.

MOTHER GOOSE PLAY
SCORED A BIG HITWith Two Large Audiences at the Myers Theatre—700 Spectators
Last Evening.

"Mother Goose Up To Date," a fantasy in four acts, peopled with the familiar characters of the nursery and presented by local talent for the benefit of St. Mary's Catholic church, was approved by large audiences at the Myers theatre yesterday afternoon and last evening, and will hold the boards again this afternoon and evening. The young people to whom were entrusted the stellar roles and the little folks who figured as roses, violets, daisies, fairies, etc., Yankee Doodle boys and girls, indians, and brownies, knew their lines and acquitted themselves in a most creditable fashion and the numerous musical numbers were so well rendered as to delight every hearer. The wealth of varied costumes and appropriate scenic investiture gave to the entire performance a brilliancy of color and charm that has not been surpassed by any of the children's plays presented here in recent years. The up-to-dateness of Mother Goose's numerous train was duly emphasized in the militant suffragette address of "Miss Mary," character admirably delivered by Miss Caroline Scoville.
The young people were trained for their parts by Miss Maude M. Jackson of Chicago, author of the piece, and it was staged under her personal direction. Miss Frances Hens presided at the piano.

Home—West Bluff Street

Tuesday evening at the home of the bride on West Bluff street, Miss Clara Clause was married to David Heenan by the Rev. T. D. Williams of the Carroll Memorial M. E. church.
The ceremony was performed under a bower of palms and the couple were attended by Miss Minnie Kopley of this city and Perry Tift, a cousin of the bride. The decorations were in green and white. About seventy guests witnessed the ceremony. A

GARBAGE SHOULD BE WELL TAKEN CARE OFHealth Officer Richards Asks Co-Operation of Citizens in Keeping Disease From City.

At this season of extreme heat it requires great care on the part of housekeepers to see to it that the garbage is properly disposed of. There is no good system for disposing of garbage, yet, in use, in many of the cities of the state of Wisconsin. Our city is doing what it can in furnishing large cans and paying a man to empty such as often as necessary, and if residents living outside of the business portion, will own small ones of their own, by paying a small sum to Mr. E. W. Reynolds who will see that they are emptied as often as is necessary.

This garbage question is a very troublesome one to cities of this size.
Our pure water is what saves us from epidemics. Where will you find so safe a place to raise a family of children. While other towns are losing a large percentage of their children from cholera-infantum and other bowel troubles, we are almost entirely exempt. Not one case of death has been reported from this disease so far this hot weather.
Bleeding vigilance is the price of victory. Cleanliness is next to Godliness. If all citizens are awake to this matter, and try to help, instead of criticizing, we shall soon have a clean city. We have reason to congratulate ourselves that so much improvement has already been made. Let us persevere in well doing.

BUMPER CROP OF OATS
ONE MILE FROM MILTON

Frank Hudson Will Harvest 100 Bushels to Acre As Result of Experiment With State Fair Seed.

Frank Hudson whose farm is located one mile out of Milton is not complaining of the drought. He has thirty acres of oats that are expected to run 100 bushels to the acre. The heads are long, abundant, and completely filled out. They are so heavy, indeed, and the stalks are so thick that some trouble is being encountered in harvesting the crop. Mr.
Hudson does not know the variety.
He purchased a bushel of seed oats at the state fair in Milwaukee last season for experimental purposes and the bumper crop is the result.

COMMONS CHANGES KING'S OATH Insult to Catholics Struck Out; Orangemen Threaten Demonstration.

London, July 28.—In the house of commons the royal declaration bill passed by a vote of 410 to 85, a plurality larger than was expected. This is the bill to revise the oath the king takes by striking out the part offensive to the Catholics. The debate was announced, but produced no ill feeling.

Cold Springs
Park
This new park is about two river. It is located ideally for picnic purposes. The grounds are level, with plenty of shade trees, a baseball diamond and ice cold springs.

It is reached by the Steamer Augustus, starting from the dock at East-end of Fourth Ave., bridge.
The trip up the river embraces some beautiful scenery and the air is wholesome and exhilarating.
At the present arrangements can be made only for Sunday trips. The steamer will leave the dock at 10:00
a. m. and 2:00 p. m.

Premier Asquith.

As first drawn up the bill substituted this: "And declare that I am a faithful member of the Protestant church as by law established in England."
The non-conformists complained that the words "as by law established" gave fresh sanction to the established church. Premier Asquith thereupon struck out the four words. The Orangemen threaten to make street demonstrations against the bill.

KELLNER SLAYER FACES ARRESTTrailed Through Many States, Suspect Believed to Be in Toledo.

San Francisco, July 28.—Trailed of Central America, Joseph Wendling, accused of the murder of eight-year-old Alma Kellner, daughter of a millionsaire brewer of Louisville, Ky., in the collar of St. John's parochial school in that city, has finally been trailed to San Francisco, where local detectives are slowly but surely draw-

Capt. J. P. Carney, chief of the Louisville detective department, who is in the city directing the search for the suspected murderer, declares that it is only a matter of hours until Wendling is caught.

Washington, July 28.—American lives and property in northeastern Nicaragua were asserted to be in no danger, according to the state department's version of a dispatch from Commander Hines of the gunboat Dubuque.

The dispatch was sent after the return to Bluefields of the gunboat Ta-of that port, where danger was reported to Americans.

SCHOOLS ARE HEAVY EXPENSE.Census Figures Show Cities Pay $4.70 Per Capita for Education.

Washington, July 28.—According to figures prepared by the census bureau the larger cities pay more for schools and for police and fire protection than on all other accounts.
The payment for schools is much the largest, the per capita expense being $4.70, as compared with $2.25 for police and $1.72 for fire protection.

The figures are a part of the bureau's report covering the financial operations for cities in 1908. The report covers all cities of more than 30,000 population, of which there are 158.

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I.—At the expense of a scolded butler Orme saves from arrest a girl in a black touring car who has caused a traffic jam on State street. He buys a five dollar bill to change a five dollar bill with "Remember person you pay this to" written on it. A second time he helps the girl in the black car and learns that in from and from Washington they have mutual friends, but gets no further hint of her identity. In his room at the same hotel he receives a telephone message from a woman who tells him to go to the marked bill, which is a riddle attempt to decipher it, he copies and places the copy in a drawer.

CHAPTER II.—Senator Portland, South American, calls and shows the marked bill. Orme refuses to give it up. Portland attacks Orme, in over one and calls in Senator Alcatraz, who calls in the police to search for him. Orme is taken to the police station and is released. The office clerk tells Orme that a Japanese has called for him, but goes away without leaving name or message.

CHAPTER III.—Orme goes for an evening walk and in Lincoln park reaches Alcatraz from two Japanese assassins. Alcatraz again tries to decipher the bill, but fails to get the marked bill. On his return to the Pere Marquette Orme is dragged by two Japanese into the tunnel passage to the city hall. He is forced into silent submission and a forced exchange of the marked bill for another. He notes one of them has a scarred forehead.

CHAPTER IV.—In the Pere Marquette reception room he finds the girl of the car waiting for him. She tells him that she is the girl who has the marked bill. Orme tells her story. She recognizes the bill with the scar on Maku, her father's butler. The second inscription on the bill is the key to the history of important papers stolen from her father, both Japanese and South American want the papers. She can not tell him who she is, but she promises to help him. He calls her "Girl." Orme gets his copy of the bill. The girl tells him that they start out in the black touring car in quest of the missing papers.

CHAPTER V.—In the university grounds at Evanston Orme meets the girl. She tells him that she is the girl who has the marked bill. Orme tells her story. She recognizes the bill with the scar on Maku, her father's butler. The second inscription on the bill is the key to the history of important papers stolen from her father, both Japanese and South American want the papers. She can not tell him who she is, but she promises to help him. He calls her "Girl." Orme gets his copy of the bill. The girl tells him that they start out in the black touring car in quest of the missing papers.

He went through the unconscious man's pockets. There was no envelope such as he was looking for, but he did find a folded slip of paper which he thrust into his own pocket. A discovery that interested him, though it was not now important, he made by the light of a second match. It was the marked five-dollar bill. He would have liked to take it as a souvenir, if for no other reason, but time was short and Maku, who evidently was not seriously hurt, showed signs of returning consciousness.

Another occurrence also hastened him. A man was strolling along the lake shore, not far away. Orme had not seen his approach, though he was distinctly outlined against the open background of lake and sky. The stranger stopped. The striking of the two matches had attracted his attention.

"Have you lost something?" he called.

"No," Orme replied.

The man started toward Orme, as if to investigate, and then Orme noticed that outlined on his head was a policeman's helmet.

To be found going through the pockets of an unconscious man was not to Orme's liking. It might be possible to explain the situation well enough to satisfy the local authorities, but that would involve delays.

HAD SCRATCHED FOR 28 YEARS

Till It Got to be Second Nature—Suffering Endless and Without Relief—Cuticura Made Skin as Clear as a Baby's.

"If I had known of the Cuticura Remedies fifty years ago it would have saved me two hundred dollars and an immense amount of suffering. My disease (psoriasis) commenced on my head in a spot not larger than a cent. It spread rapidly over my body and got under my nails. The scales would drop off of me all the time and my suffering was endless and without relief. A thousand dollars would not tempt me to cure this disease over again. I am a poor man, but feel rich to be free of what some of the doctors called leprosy, some ringworm, psoriasis, etc. I took Cuticura, and a box of Cuticura Ointment and a box of Cuticura Soap, and three boxes of Cuticura Ointment and three boxes of Cuticura Soap. If you had been there and said you would have cured me for two hundred dollars, you would have had the money. I was covered with the scales, but by using Cuticura I was as clear as any person ever was. This was over twenty-two years ago and for a long time, through force of habit, I used to rub my hands over my arms and legs to scratch, but to no purpose. I had scratched twenty-two years and it got to be a kind of second nature to me. Dennis Downing, Waterbury, Vt., November 27, 1909.

So he jumped to his feet and ran northward, then turned to the west. Circling about, he made for the gate at which he had entered. His pursuer either took the wrong lead in the darkness or stopped to examine Maku, for when Orme went through the gate and doubled back, outside the fence, to the car, there was no sound of steps behind him. He jumped to the chauffeur's seat.

"Well," inquired the girl, eagerly. "Too late," said Orme. "I'm sorry. I caught Maku, but the man with the envelope got away."

She laid a hand on his arm. "Are you hurt?" There was unconcealed anxiety in her voice.

To say the things he yearned to say! To be tender to her! But he controlled his feelings and explained briefly what had happened, at the same time throwing on the power and driving the car slowly northward.

"I only know that the fellow ran northward," he said. "He may have worked back or he may have gone on. He may have climbed another tree and waited."

By this time they had come to the northern limits of the grounds, but he had seen no one.

Suddenly the girl exclaimed:

"Listen!"

Orme stopped the car. Somewhere from the distance came a faint hum. "Another car!" he muttered.

"Yes," she said. "Oh, but I can do no more. I am tired, Mr. Orme. We cannot catch that car, even if it does hold the man we want—and there is no way of being sure that it does."

"If there is any place to leave you, I will go after him alone," he had turned the car as he spoke and was sending it slowly southward.

"No," she said wearily. "You must do no more tonight. You have been so good, Mr. Orme—to help me in a matter of which I could tell you almost nothing. I won't even try to thank you—except by saying that you have understood."

He knew what she meant. He had met her need, because he had shown his greatness without her telling him. His recognition of her plight had been unaccompanied by any suggestion of ignored conventions. No gushing thanks would have pleased him half so much.

He smiled at her wistfully. "Does it all end here?"

"No," she said. "I will not let it end here. We are friends already; in fact, Mr. Orme, as soon as I can do so, I will see that we are friends in name. Can you accept as little a promise as that?"

"I can accept any promise from you," he said gravely. "And now shall I take you home?"

"Not home. It is too far. But I have some friends a few blocks away who will take me in. Turn here, please."

Under her guidance he took the car through several streets, drawing up at last before a large, comfortable-looking place, set back from the street, with a wide, shrub-dotted lawn before it. Several windows were still lighted. He descended to help her out.

She hesitated. "I hate to ask it, Mr. Orme," she finally said, "but you can catch the trolley back to Chicago. They will take care of the car here."

He nodded. "But one thing, Girl," he said. "I am going to find that other Japanese tomorrow. I shall get the envelope. Will you call me up at the apartment tomorrow noon? If I am not there, leave word where I can find you."

"I will do that. But don't get yourself hurt." She let him help her to the ground.

"At noon," he said.

"At noon. Good-night, my friend."

She offered her hand.

"Good-night, Girl," he said, and then he bent over and kissed her fingers gently.

He stood by the car until she had crossed the lawn and ascended the steps—until the door opened and admitted her.

CHAPTER VI.

A Chance Lead.

To follow the girl's suggestion and return at once to Chicago was Orme's intention when he said good-night to her. The hour was close to midnight, and the evening had been crowded so full with bewildering adventure that he was tired. Moreover, he looked forward to a morning that might well test his endurance even more strenuously.

He had now committed himself definitely to continue in the field against the Japanese. Except for his desire to serve this wonderful girl who had come so suddenly into his life, he doubtless would have permitted the mystery of the marked bill to remain unsolved. But since the recovery of the stolen papers was so important to her, he was prepared to run any risk in the struggle.

Who was she? But no, that was a question she did not wish him to ask. She was simply "Girl"—beautiful, tender, comprehending—his ideal incarnate. As he stood there, hesitant, before the house into which she had disappeared, he pictured her again—even to the strand of rebellious hair which had blown across her cheek. He could discover no fault in her perfection.

A man came into view on the drive at the side of the house; a servant to care for the car, of course; and Orme, with the uneasy feeling of one who has been trespassing, moved away toward the corner of the block. He looked back, however, and saw the newcomer clamber into the car and send it slowly up the drive.

At the same time a light illumined one of the upper windows of the house. A shadow was thrown on the curtain. Perhaps it was the girl herself. What explanation had she given her friends for appearing so late at their door? Probably she had told them no more than that she was tired and belated. She was not the kind of girl from whom an elaborate explanation would be asked or expected.

Then a thought startled him. Was this, perhaps, her home? No, she had spoken of the people who lived here as her friends, and she would not have tried to keep the truth from him by subterfuge. If this were her home and she had not wished him to know it, she would have requested him to leave her before they had come so far.

It dawned upon him that it would not be hard for him to learn who lived in this house, and possibly through that knowledge to get a clue to her identity. His heart warmed as he realized how completely she had trusted him. His assurance that he would not try to find out who she was had satisfied her. And Orme knew that, if she had been so readily assured, it was because she had recognized the truth and devotion in him.

With a happy sigh, he turned his back once and for all and walked rapidly away. But he did not go toward the electric-car line, which he knew must lie a few blocks to the west. Instead, he retraced the course they had come, for he had decided to visit the university campus once more and try to discover what had become of Maku, and more especially of the other Japanese, who had secured the papers. That he would be recognized and connected with the attack on Maku, was unlikely.

When he came to the corner of Sheridan road and Chicago avenue, he hesitated for a moment. Should he go north through the campus and seek a trace of the Japanese who had escaped? Nearly half an hour had gone since the adventure among the trees, and the man must have got completely away by this time. Having the papers, he surely would not linger to learn the fate of Maku.

Orme found himself wondering how the Japanese had got to Evanston. Granting that it had not taken them long to solve the abbreviated directions on the five-dollar bill, they could hardly have come by motor-car, for they had had a good half-hour start, and Orme had discovered them before their work was completed. Only on the assumption that their car had broken down on the way could Orme admit that they had used a motor-car. Moreover, how were two Japanese, whose appearance did not indicate the possession of much ready money—how were they likely to have a car, or even to rent one? And had they believed that they might be pursued? Would they not have come to Evanston by an obvious route of train or trolley?

Reverie.

Reverie, like the rain of night, restores color and force to thoughts which have been blanched and wearied by the heat of the day. With gentle fertilizing power it awakens within us a thousand sleeping germs and, as though in play, gathers around us materials for the future, and makes for the use of talent. Reverie is the Sunday of thought.—Amiel's Journal.

"The Peculiar Business"

In every city in every town wherever there is business and where daily advertising is used you hear the remark "well I know that advertising pays, but this is a peculiar business."

The well known Bugbear as it is—and the standing joke among advertising men—is ont a good excuse for not advertising—Every business is peculiar unto itself and every business man knows it. The reason one advertises and the other does not is because one is a "live" one, the other is not. One business will stand the test of advertising and WIN. Another business man dare not give his business publicity. No two businesses, even of the same nature are conducted alike.

The real point to consider is "How does my business differ" and how can I adopt advertising to it so as to make the difference show to best advantage. Here is food for thought. If you cannot solve the problem maybe we can.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, July 28, 1870.—Jottings.—Several of the ladies of the Methodist church are busily engaged today, making cushions for the seats in the audience room of the church.

Rufus Stockton, stationer, No. 204 Broadway, New York, is carefully illustrating his circulars through the west. We have heard of them in several places, but never have seen one until yesterday when a gentleman handed us a copy, received by him. The proposition of this confidential swindler is to furnish counterfeit greenbacks of small denominations at low prices, taking his pay in genuine greenbacks. Of course the whole transaction is a swindle, but it is an ingenious one. Parties attempting to deal with him may rest assured that they never will receive any returns.

The Mutual Base Ball Club leaves here tonight for Beaver Dam, where they play a game tomorrow. On Saturday they play at Fond du Lac. The Cream City Club, of Milwaukee, has been twice challenged this summer, by the Mutuals, but it is impossible to get up a game with them.

Capt. Pratt, who resides about one mile from the city, on the Fulton road, was thrown today, from a staking upon the edge of a stick of timber, fracturing several ribs.

RAIL HEAD OPTIMISTIC OVER CROP OUTLOOK

President W. C. Brown of New York Central Says West is Most Prosperous.

New York, July 28.—President W. C. Brown of the New York Central railroad, after a ten days' trip through Iowa, Minnesota, the Dakotas, Nebraska and Kansas, has reached the conclusion that the conditions in the west are better than they have been in years, that the crops, in spite of the droughts, are going to show excellent returns for the farmers, and that there is absolutely nothing to warrant the pessimism over the country's welfare that has developed of late in the east.

Mr. Brown returns to town full of enthusiasm over all he has seen. He finds that the west is like a garden, the people brimful of hope for a prosperous future, and—special emphasis on this—manufacturers and merchants, almost without exception, agreed, that in view of the large increase in wages and cost of materials, the railroads are entitled to a reasonable increase in freight rates.

The Ticklemouse

—and his Sleepyland Adventures

By Roy Rutherford Bailey with Davy and Dorfy

The Beach Picnic

"I've been thinking," said the Ticklemouse, smiling into the twin's eager faces, "that some planked whitefish would taste pretty good tonight. Would you care for that?"

Willy Wishingmouse clapped his paws, and the twins knew from his actions that planked whitefish must be something good, though they had never tasted any. And was not anything the Ticklemouse proposed anything good? They joined him in his airship and sailed swiftly away to the shores of Charlevoix, set like a jewel among three lovely lakes of its own.

They landed on the south beach and quickly built a fire. The Ticklemouse went back to the beach airship and took a short oak board under the seat.

"What's that for?" Davy thought it looked too good to burn.

"This is the plank," answered the Ticklemouse. He made haste to drive small nails into the edges of the board, all the way down the sides.

"Now bring the wire, Willy," and he fastened a long piece of picture wire to the end nail.

"I'll leave this here on the log while I go after the whitefish. Children, you look after the fire—make a great big one, five or six feet high, so we'll have lots of solid coals. Keep it blazing in good shape or we'll have too much smoke to do the thing right."

How he caught that whitefish, the twins never knew. Even Willy was puzzled, for his uncle took no trout or fishing tackle, and the whitefish were too far out in the middle of Lake Michigan, in the deep water, so the Ticklemouse's clothes weren't even damp when he came back with the dripping fish.

"A four-pounder if an ounce," he said, proudly. He whipped a jack knife out of his pocket and scaled the fish in a twinkling. With quick, sure strokes he slashed off its head and tail, slipped a slender mouse-finger each side of the back bone, and slowly drew it forth from the firm white flesh. He didn't use his knife at all for this—just those two quick little paws.

"Now, poke the fire together more, Willy. Push the green sticks around to the lee side, so the smoke will blow away from the lake, while I wash this gentleman in old Lake Michigan for the last time."

He laid the whitefish, back down, on the plank, spread it out flat, and passed the wire back and forth across it till it was firmly wired in place. Then he salted and peppered it, slipped in a few slices of bacon, and set it up on end fully four feet from the glowing coals. "That's so it won't catch any smoke or cinders if the wind shifts."

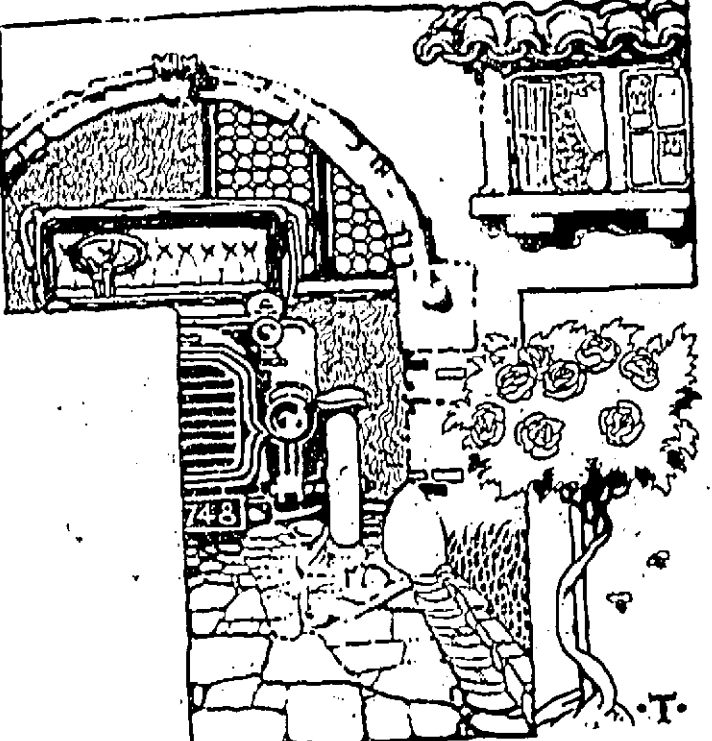

In half an hour the whitefish had turned a rich, golden brown, like a mackerel's skin. In another hour, the twins and the mice had turned into four round, roly-poly creatures almost as plump as Doverville's pompous mayor. And if their airship kept from puffing and groaning on their homeward flight, it was only because it was a very strong and brave airship, and used to carrying extra weight!

For the Service of the Race.
There is no division of opinion as to the goal for which our girls are educated. More and more, out of the chaotic past, the conviction stands out that each one of us is in training for the service of the race. A woman's soul, like a man's, is to give up her life that the life of the next generation may be wiser and happier than this one. No higher education, that is not foolish and ill-judged can unfit a woman for the noblest and most useful work of the world and training them wisely. No higher education can unfit a woman, who is not blessed with children, for dealing nobly and wisely and generously with the rising generation.—Louise Collier Wilcox, in Harper's Bazar.

VERY FOOLISH
Mrs. Jones—Don't you think Ned Hardison is foolish to get married? The doctor says he can't live over a year!
Mr. Jones—He's very foolish—those chaps usually live longer than any body else.

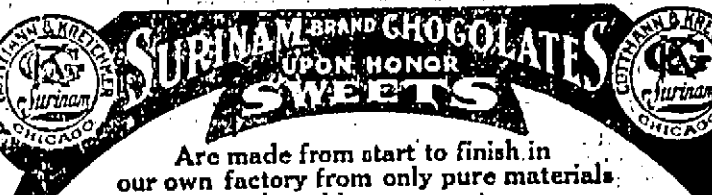

Seize the Golden Moment.
Alas for those who let the golden moment pass—who let the gate of opportunity be shut in their faces, while they wait before it trying to master favoring conditions, or argument and authority, like an army with banners to escort them through.—Sarah Orne Jewett.

The Microbe Census.

A census of microbes on the surface of various exposed articles of food was taken by the Pasteur Institute of Paris, with startling results. A cubic centimeter of water in which some strawberries were washed produced 1,850,000 germs. This is certainly an excellent argument for protection of fruits exposed for sale from dust.—Wheeling Intelligence.

Not Ultra Fashionable.

"She has wonderful brown eyes!" exclaimed the enthusiastic young man. "Then she does not dress in ultra fashion," commented Mrs. Cayenne. "What makes you think so?" "If she did her hat wouldn't permit you to see her eyes."

A Patron.

"Mr. Carrington is busy now," said the private secretary of the railroad president. "Is there anything I can do for you?" "O," replied the pompous visitor, "just a friendly call. I thought he'd like to know that I ride on his suburban branch now. I'm Colonel Nurieth."

Great Wisconsin Land Opening

150,000 Acres in Sawyer County, Wisconsin, Released for Settlement.
$6.50 to $20 Per Acre and Easy Terms.

Yielding to the urgent and increasing demands of homeseekers, the lumber interests have at last released for settlement an enormous acreage of rich, undeveloped land, the heart of Wisconsin's great timber and big crop-producing section. The American Immigration Company of Chippewa Falls, Wis., has secured this great body of land and is offering remarkable inducements to settlers and investors. The land is equal in productive power to land that commands $100 to $150 per acre in Iowa, Illinois, Indiana or Ohio. The company is selling off this land at the remarkably low valuation of $6.50 to $20 per acre.

The terms are one-fourth to one-third cash and the balance in ten years. This is an opportunity unparalleled in recent years. A man with a few hundred dollars and a determination to win can get one of these splendid farms and be independent in a few years. There is timber to be cleared away, but much of it is valuable hardwood, which can be turned into money at the forty sawmills.

The timber can thus be made to pay for the land and provide lumber for farm buildings and fences.

Settlers in the Round Lake Country have the advantages of good markets, railroad facilities, churches and good neighbors. It is a country of abundant rainfall and the purest of water.

Hundreds are headed for the Round Lake Country, Sawyer County, determined to get a fresh start in a new country, where every man has a "ground floor" opportunity.

Free books, maps and full information regarding the great development plans now under way can be secured by addressing the local representative of the American Immigration Company.

VERY GREEN

"Tom is very new at politics." "Yes, he heard a man say the other day that he would rather be right than president, and Gruet replied that he didn't see why a man couldn't be both."

Finds an Old Penny.

Bombardier lost a perfectly good penny back in the days when a British king ruled the American colony. It was minted in 1722 and the owner was permanently poorer by that penny, for it was not found until the other day, when Albert Baker picked it up on the Richmond turnpike, State Island. The spot where Albert found the old coin is on the line of the stage coaches that used to run between New York and Philadelphia.

Our Day Dreams.

The chief of which our day dreams are made is for the most part of very cheap material. We seldom weave into them the threads of our innermost spiritual life. We build castles in Spain, and forecast adventures in Bohemia. But the castle is without a real mortar. The hero of the adventure is a vague and misty. We do not clearly recognize his face, or know what is in his heart.—Henry Van Dyke.
